

BURGLARS LOOT COURTHOUSE, BLAST VAULT

WESTERN U.S. IS HIT BY QUAKE

Tremors Felt In One-Fifth of Nation; No Damage

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21. — A strong earthquake shook virtually the entire western United States, embracing about a fifth of the nation last night. Seismologists said it was the most severe in the area since 1925.

No serious damage was reported from the series of shocks which began at 10:10 p. m. (Pacific Standard time) and continued with diminishing intensity until 11:15 p. m. The quake centered in Nevada where windows were shattered.

Clocks were stopped in cities as widely separated as Salt Lake City, Utah, and Fresno, Calif. Chandeliers swayed, pictures were thrown awry and some crockery broken.

West Trembles Under Shocks

At 10:10 p. m., Western America, bounded roughly by the Canadian and Mexican borders and extending from the Pacific Coast to Salt Lake City, Utah, and beyond, trembled under the series of shocks. Needles were hurled from seismographs in Spokane, Wash., Berkeley, Calif., and at the University of Santa Clara in San Jose, Calif.

Minutes later newspapers in the area were subjected to hundreds of telephone calls asking the source of the shocks. Most of the queries came from persons reporting swaying chandeliers or stopped clocks. Rumors of severe damage in remote areas was quickly investigated and discarded.

Seismologists agree the quake centered in Nevada, where several minor shocks have been recorded in the last few years. Prof. Perry Byerly of the University of California computed the epicenter or seismic vertical as "probably somewhere in Nevada." Seismologists at the University of Santa Clara agreed.

The pens on the recording instrument at the University of California at Berkeley were thrown clear from the drum at 10:10 p. m. and were replaced seven minutes later when another shock threw them back into position.

Comparable to 1925
Prof. Byerly said the record of his instrument was comparable to that of 1925 when the major part of Santa Barbara, Calif., was destroyed by an earthquake.

Reports from Reno, Ely, Gerlach and Austin, Nevada, indicated the shocks were severe but no damage except broken windows was known to have caused to buildings. Officials of the Western Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads, operating lines through Nevada, said there had been no interruption in train service nor any damage to roadbeds or rolling stock. Residents at Gerlach denied reports a water tower in that town had been razed. Residents of Rawlins, Wyo., felt the shock and persons in Needles, Calif., far to the south on the Colorado river, said the ground trembled.

A Sacramento, Calif., police on duty at the state capital building said the structure swayed and

SEVEN SEEKING GETZ' PLACE ON TRUSTEE BOARD

Commissioner - Elect Expected to Submit Resignation Dec. 30

HAS SERVED PERRY TOWNSHIP 21 YEARS

Successor to be Selected By Justice of Peace T. R. Whinnery

Seven Perry township men are seeking the appointment of township trustee to succeed Austin J. Getz of Salem who will be sworn into office as a member of the county board of commissioners on January 1.

Whinnery To Appear
Applications for appointment to the post have been submitted to Clarkson S. French, township clerk. The appointment will be made by Justice of Peace T. R. Whinnery immediately following Getz' resignation.

Getz is expected to submit his resignation when township trustees meet for their final session of the year on Friday, December 30. He has been a member of the township board for 21 years.

According to Ohio statutes the appointment of his successor lies in the hands of the "justice of peace holding the oldest commission." Present commissioners of all Salem justices are dated for the same period and, to cover this case, another statute stipulates that the "oldest justice shall make the appointment."

Trustees Meet Tuesday
The statute is interpreted to mean the age of the individual and therefore places the appointment up to Justice Whinnery.

Members of the township board held their monthly meeting in their office, South Broadway, last night. Getz, together with Charles Paxson, has been serving the township as trustee since 1911 and has been president of the board for more than 10 years. The third trustee is R. C. Eckstein.

Invites Kiddies To Skating Party

Mothers of the children are invited to accompany them. "Santa Claus" will be there on skates to entertain, McArthur said.

NO WORK, NO AID IS CITY'S EDICT

In Addition, Vagrancy To Be Charged, City Council Decides

Requests that he be permitted to file vagrancy charges against men who have been provided aid by the city relief commission but, in turn, refuse to work for the commission, were submitted to city council Tuesday night by Safety Director John R. Kerr.

Kerr, as chief of the commission, reported that many men, heads of families regularly receiving food, clothing or fuel from the commission, are refusing to work and, because of this refusal, are imposing added hardships on their families.

As soon as the men refuse to work the commission eliminates the names of their families from the welfare list.

Council approved Kerr's plan, granting him authority to file vagrancy charges against the men and suggested to Mayor J. M. Davidson that, if they continue to refuse to work, they be sentenced to the Canton workhouse.

Davidson pledged his cooperation in the plan.

An ordinance providing for the transfer of $350 from the general fund to the city's share of the street improvement fund was approved under suspension of rules.

The transfer was made to pay bills originating in the improvement of South Broadway last summer.

First reading was given an amending ordinance which exempts those persons who have been residents of Salem for a year from being affected by a measure approved two weeks ago under which itinerant vendors must pay a tax to the city.

"Forgotten Man"

But you won't hear this man make any kick on that account. He is Archibald Herron, 74, who has been incarcerated in the Trenton, N. J., prison since 1908 when he was sentenced to death for the murder of a clergyman. After appeal proceedings had lasted five years, Judge James Bergen, who sentenced Herron, ordered a stay of execution "until further orders." But the judge died without giving the further orders and Herron has been 24 years under sentence of death.

KERR ADDRESSES TRAVELERS CLUB

Discusses Religion, Civilization and Economic Difficulties

"While ours is a country of religious freedom, it is a country of God-fearing people. The foundations of American civilization have been laid on the rock of belief in God," declared Earl S. Kerr, superintendent of Salem's public schools, when he spoke to Travelers club members at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at Memorial building. His subject was "Faith in America."

Kerr continued, "Each Thanksgiving proclamation of our President attests that high and low alike center an abiding faith in the Maker and Ruler of all. We seek development and happiness in the light of truth." Mrs. William Silver, president, presented the speaker.

"Our nation's struggles have been honorable and unselfish. Our economic development has been honest and achieved. High ideals and a strong religious faith guide us in our world betterment," he said. "In all the world today there is no land comparable to our own United States. This nation can be counted on to adapt itself to the demands of future constructive world leadership," Kerr believes.

Born Against Tyranny

"Being born to some extent as a protest against oppression, our country has staked its all on the principles of self-determination. Freedom under the law has been our motto. Colonial campfires along the Atlantic seaboard cheered hearts bowed under a decadent feudalism. The hypothesis that civic freedom without royal paternalism or religious control could command sufficient unity to perpetuate itself was being tested before the eyes of a doubting world."

"Through a long period of time

DRYS BATTLING FOR DILUTION OF BEER BILL

Some Demand Reduction to 2.75 and Restricted Distribution

SENATE MAY GET MEASURE TODAY

Scotch Whisky, Bottles of Real Beer Used To "Prove" Points

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The 3.2 per cent alcoholic content was retained in the Collier beer bill today by the house.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The Collier beer bill pumped over another rocky road in the house today as drays pooled their strength in an effort to dilute its alcoholic content provision before a final vote is taken.

Offer Amendments

With the long-sarcastic debate on whether 3.2 per cent beer is intoxicating concluded, the way was opened for the offering of amendments under the so-called five-minute rule. Some drays planned to propose amendments to reduce alcoholic percentage to 2.75 by weight and to impose restriction on distribution.

Democratic leaders, however, remained confident that these amendments would be defeated and that the bill would be sent to the senate by the required majority before the close of the day.

The debate yesterday raged through the crowded chamber for six hours, with personalities freely exchanged and party lines disregarded. Scotch whisky and bottles of real beer were displayed to prove disputed points.

Dynamite Is Used to Blast Off Door In John C. Litty's Quarters; $286 Machine Gun, Rifle Taken from Sheriff's Rooms

Burglars early today looted the courthouse at Lisbon, dynamited doors of a vault, ransacked safes and escaped with $318 in money, a machine gun, rifle, revolver and large quantities of ammunition.

The money was taken from the safe in the office of County Auditor John H. Irwin and represents funds obtained by the auditor Tuesday afternoon from the sale of automobile license plates. An undetermined amount of postage stamps was also taken in Irwin's office.

The machine gun and ammunition, recently purchased by the county at a cost of $268.10, and the rifle were taken from the private office of Sheriff William J. Barlow. The revolver was obtained from the office of Treasurer John C. Litty.

Offices of Treasurer John C. Litty of Salem and Auditor Irwin were closed today as Sheriff Barlow and deputies were conducting investigations. The burglary was discovered at 6 a. m. by William Hutchison, janitor, who immediately notified the sheriff.

Entrance was effected into the courthouse through a window in the basement office of Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. A top window at the south west corner of the office was forced downwards. Footprints of the thieves, after they entered the window and walked across a draftman's board, were plainly discernible today.

The burglars broke the glass window in a door leading to a drafting room from where they took four sheepskin coats, used by Kirk's force in out-door work, and a football sweat shirt.

Blow Vault Down

Forcing their way into the office of Treasurer Litty, the burglars, using the sweat shirt and coats to muffle sound of the explosion, dynamited the door from the large vault in the office. Their efforts to enter the safe, however, were futile, the blast failing to open inner doors.

Extensive damage resulted to Litty's office from the force of the explosion. Debris was strewn over the entire room while glass in two windows was broken out. One of the window blinds was recovered this morning 100 yards from the courthouse.

The burglars also looted cash drawers in Litty's desks, then made futile attempts to rifle a small file box containing valuable county records. A revolver kept by Litty for use in emergencies was reported missing.

The office of Clerk of Courts John A. Noble was also ransacked, papers strewn over the room, but nothing is reported to have been taken.

FIRE RAZES PIKE BARN; LOSS $7,500

2 Cows, 2 Calves Perish; Incendiary Is Suspected

Fire of mysterious origin at 3:30 a. m. today destroyed a barn on the property of Grant E. Pike, just north of Lisbon village limits, resulting in loss estimated at $7,500.

Two cows, two calves, an automobile and a truck, as well as farming equipment, grain, hay, beans and cabbage were burned in the fire, Pike reported. The loss is not covered by insurance.

Theories were advanced by Sheriff William J. Barlow that the blaze may have been of incendiary origin, ignited by burglars who looted courthouse offices early today.

Members of the Lisbon fire department were called, preventing spread of the flames to Pike's residence.

The barn fire spread rapidly, consuming the building quickly and made futile any efforts of firemen to extinguish flames.

Investigations this morning revealed that Pike, himself, had visited the barn at midnight and could establish definitely the fact that there were no fires or blaze hazards around the building at the time.

$4,000 TAKEN IN BANK ROBBERY

Three Men Complete Raid In Five Minutes At West Sharon

AKRON, O., Dec. 21.—Three men today obtained $4,000 in cash in a quick raid on the Sharon Farmers bank at Sharon Center, 10 miles west of here, that took only five minutes.

While one man waited outside in an automobile, two companions entered the bank shortly before the noon lunch hour and pointed guns at Mrs. Dorothy Robinson, 28, assistant cashier, and John Bell, president.

Working rapidly, they scooped up all the money in cash drawers and tills and fled before the alarm could be spread. They overlooked a number of Liberty bonds.

The trio sped toward Cleveland, where police were asked to be on the watch for them.

An attempt was made to rob the bank a year ago, but no money was obtained.

UNQUALIFIED

The League of Nations, worrying over what has been done in Manchuria and striving to conciliate China and Japan, has been placed in a position it is not qualified to fill. In conception, it was to be an international policeman. Enlargement of the conception assigned it the duties of a police judge. Now it is being asked to serve as a judge of appeals.

It is as obvious as anything can be that the league can do nothing about what happened in Manchuria. It is as helpless to undo the actions of the Chinese and Japanese as a policeman is to heal the broken heads of two street brawlers whom he tried to stop too late. China and Japan quarreled and Japan, being the stronger, was the winner. There it is; no policeman can alter the fact.

A wise policeman knowing his beat probably would conclude that what had been done couldn't be helped and continue to do everything he could to prevent further fights from occurring. But he would have to act quietly; there would be some people in the neighborhood who would insist on the offenders being taken to jail. The League of Nations, being nothing more or less than a servant of the populations of its members, has been forced into a grotesque position by the very people it is supposed to help.

If they insist on demonstrating its inability to adjudicate the Manchurian affair they very likely will humiliate it so deeply that its last lingering vestiges of power will be sacrificed. There is a real question as to whether that sacrifice has not been made already. There are in the laws of the league duties which it cannot perform.

There is a place in the world for a policeman to keep the peace. While nationalism remains there can be no place for a policeman who must pass sentence and execute judgment on offenders, however. The League of Nations has made a feeble attempt but now it has postponed effort until next year. It has been forced into admitting its embarrassment. Has it also admitted, perhaps, its failure to do what its ardent advocates expected of it?

THERE WAS A TIME

There are Americans and Frenchmen who, for various reasons, are bringing up the subject of what still is called the Revolutionary war debt of the United States to France. They claim to find in it the shadowy substance of principles which might be helpful in working out the problems of the present debt situation.

Americans are likely to consider first the fact of France's unwillingness to make anything to the United States but secret gifts. They are prone to recall the well established theory that what assistance finally was forthcoming was made to embarrass Great Britain. In a senate debate in 1925 when this point was discussed Senator Borah gave the opinion that France had been repaid adequately for its assistance.

Frenchmen, on the other hand, find it advantageous to look at the situation from another angle. They are likely to recall that the American states were not able to meet all the interest and refunding payments on a loan made in 1788 immediately after the consummation of the Franco-American treaty of alliance. In 1782 France officially remitted the arrears then due, amounting to about $350,000.

Including this remission, the total Revolutionary war gifts by France to this country amounted to approximately $1,800,000,000. Incidentally, this sum, were it to be compounded over 50 years at 4 3/4 per cent interest, the average rate of the loans made by France to the United States, would amount to a little less than two billion dollars. Exclusive of the remission and gifts, the money advanced by France was repaid by 1815. For practical purposes, therefore, there is no point in reviving the subject of the Revolutionary war debt. The money which was not repaid was not named in any agreement between the two countries. For reasons which many historians have not considered worthy of being called anything more than international back-biting, France chose to help this nation in its early struggle. There can be no valid comparison with the debts incurred in the course of the World war.

What Others Say

GUBERNATORIAL ABSOLUTISM
The stand taken by the supreme court that federal courts have authority to inquire into a governor's order declaring a state of insurrection and ordering out the state militia will perhaps serve to put a crimp in the general practice of calling out the national guard on every pretext.

Just how far a governor could legally go in enforcing an order has been an open question. In particular the country has watched the actions of Gov. Murray of Oklahoma who has been especially active in using the national guard. First it was over a bridge controversy. Then he used the guard to stop production of oil wells.

Of course, holding down oil production may have been a good thing, but it involved a despotic imposition of unwarranted authority. If it is legal to turn out the national guard to plug oil wells, by the same line of reasoning it would be logical to put a guard over every farm and prevent farmers from planting too many potatoes. Taking the case to the city, it would be reasonable to use militia to prevent the greeting card makers from producing a surplus of Christmas cards.

When a governor uses the militia to impose his own will, especially in a matter involving economic laws, constitutional guarantees of individuals are trampled and the state becomes a little monarchy.

This ruling of the supreme court was a direct slap at Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas, but it applies as well to all other state executives, who are inclined to take themselves too seriously and regard themselves as absolute monarchs—Ohio State Journal.

MIAMI, FLA.—There is a great deal of little news. In California, Governor Rolph pardons 120 convicted of bootlegging. The people voted, vox dei (the voice of the people is the voice of God), and Governor Rolph says that is more important than the voice of prohibition.

PROFESSOR KRAUS, who teaches philosophy in City college of New York, has changed his mind about killing himself by fasting because nobody does anything about attacks on Jews in Poland.

He, philosophically, concludes that he couldn't improve conditions in Poland by dying of hunger. A living professor is better than a dead martyr.

A STRANGE story from Duluth, Minn., about two men who agreed to steal a pig. One was to drive the pig out through a little trap door, the other standing with an ax to hit the pig when it appeared.

One man crawled in, but the pig was not there. He crawled out of the little door and his friend, waiting, hit him in the neck with the ax. It was a nervous blow and he will recover. Any clergyman can find a moral in that story.

MR. LARKIN CLEVELAND'S Herald, published in De Funiak Springs, Fla., carries on its front page the line "Liked by many, cursed by some, and read by everybody," believes that oil will soon be found at De Funiak Springs.

An important member of the Standard Oil crowd believed that there is oil in Florida, that the deposits must run eastward from Mexico under the gulf, and below the surface of Florida. After spending two or three hundred thousand dollars trying to find it, he decided that the oil was too far down. If oil is there, as it probably is, somebody will find it. But don't buy oil stocks hastily.

IN THE BRITISH House of Commons an indignant member discovers that tabasco sauce, used in the House restaurant, is made in Louisiana, U. S. A. Promptly the House agrees to throw out the "Pankee" concoction and substitute something British.

Meanwhile, some Americans continue to emphasize the superiority of British goods, doing all they can to finance British labor and commerce.

CRIME incident in Chicago. Four policemen raided seven gangsters, presumably talking business, on the fifth floor of an office building.

They surrendered meekly, but police failed to recognize Frank Nitti, on whom reporters have bestowed the picturesque title "Death Enforcer of the Boss."

Mr. Nitti put a piece of paper in his mouth, chewed violently and tried to swallow. Policeman Lang dashed at Nitti to save the secret. Nitti started firing. Lang was a better shot. Three bullets in Nitti's abdomen, one in the spine, will make it necessary to choose another "death enforcer."

AGAIN this year the Russian government will "ignore Christmas" and Christmas day, surviving the ignoring process, will be celebrated by millions, in Russia as elsewhere, when those that now decide to ignore Christmas will have been long forgotten.

Religions die, when their time has passed, and a better one appears, but you can't kill them.

LIGHT is shed on bootlegging and racketeering profits by the fact that Mr. Nitti has recently served 12 months in Leavenworth prison for failing to pay Uncle Sam any income tax on his three years' share of "Capone profit," amounting to $842,888. You can imagine how much the "big shots" must have collected if an understrapper gets $300,000 a year, and are not surprised that in our prohibition-depression-come era, the income of the criminal classes is greater than that of the United States government.

This is not the fault of prohibition, but due to the fact that prohibition did not work out as expected, because you cannot change human nature by the law in this country, any more than the Russians can abolish religion by law in their country.

INGENUITY in any form fascinates the human mind. Archimedes thinking in his bathtub about the amount of water he displaced solved the problem of "specific gravity" has interested the ages. A criminal, running away from Detective H. G. Howard described in Frank B. Shutt's Miami Herald, interest's you, in his small way.

He ran into a restaurant where Mr. J. B. Murnan was eating peacefully in a revolving chair. As he went by the alleged criminal seized Mr. Murnan, giving him and his chair a violent spin. Mr. Murnan's outstretched legs swinging around the pursuing detective and the ingenious spinner of the chair escaped.

Posture May Cause Backache
"I suffer from sacro-iliac backache," somebody just wrote me. "Is there anything that I can do to relieve the pain?"

I receive many letters like this. Some of these sufferers have not been to a physician but they clearly describe their symptoms.

Backache may be caused by various things, but among the most common and important causes is trouble in the sacro-iliac articulation. These big words apply to the joint between the lowest portion of the spinal column and the hip bone.

This joint is easily dislocated, strained or injured. A fall, lifting a heavy object, a blow or a twist, may injure this sensitive articulation. Persons who are overweight and whose work demands continued standing, ending or sitting, are in danger of trouble in this joint.

To Get Relief
Faulty posture, such as results from standing or sitting in a slouching position, leads to this ailment, with all its discomforts. If you have ever suffered from sacro-iliac backache you appreciate how annoying and painful this condition can be. The severe pain may come entirely from the faulty posture. The victim may be amazed to find how quickly his discomfort disappears with correction of his bodily posture.

Rest is imperative in an acute attack of this disorder. Complete rest in bed will materially reduce the pain and shorten the duration of the attack.
For those who are unable to take advantage of this method of treatment, strapping of the back will help a lot. Strap with adhesive plaster, starting from the left hip and extending over to the opposite side. Then reverse the process, strapping from the right side. Continue until five or six layers of adhesive strapping overlay each other. In most instances pain is immediately relieved by the strapping.

The pain is due to a spasm of the muscles caused by sudden movements or muscular exertion. The adhesive strapping serves as a tight corset and restricts the movements of the muscles, easing the pain.

Of course this treatment is only a temporary measure. Since the dislocation or strain can be traced to a weakened joint it is necessary that the joint be strengthened. To this end, a supporting brace of some kind is needed. I would advise that you be measured for this brace by a specialist in this work. A poorly fitted brace is more harmful than no brace. A properly adjusted belt or other appliance does wonders.

Of course, backache pain may be wrongly attributed to sacro-iliac weakness. Not every ache in this region can be explained so easily. Certain other disturbances may have the same symptoms and mislead the sufferer. The underlying cause can be pretty accurately determined by an X-ray picture of the spine and hip bones.

Answers to Health Queries
M. G. W. Q.—What causes the ankles to crack when you get up to walk?

A.—Cracking joints are usually due to lack of synovial fluid. Massage the parts with warm cod liver oil before retiring.

E. R. Q.—What causes a dull pain on top of the head?

A.—This may be due to high blood pressure. Have your blood pressure tested, also have your eyes examined.

F. D. P. Q.—How can I gain weight?

A.—Eat plenty of good nourishing food, including milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Exercise daily in the fresh air, practice deep breathing. Get regular hours of sleep. Take cod liver oil as a general tonic.

NEW YORK Dec. 21—Bewery pawnshop, more than ever, are symbolic of their sign of the proud Medici—three gold balls—this winter. For a fallen aristocracy is crossing their thresholds. Havens of down-town money lenders offer obscure hide-aways for those from uptown who need quick loans.

It's no exaggeration that many who once were able to drop into banks for four-figured sums with out question, now must pledge treasures to fill the familyarder. Fifth and Park avenues have their quota of those who borrow in the Bewery area. A matron from Tuxedo park recently pawned her engagement ring.

As a rule, pawnshop trivia is junk, but it is doubtful if ever before they have received such magnificent offerings. One sees real silver tea sets, nine-branched candle chandeliers, extraordinary ceramics, and priceless heirlooms of doubtless antiquity.

Windows are Pandora boxes, overflowing with luxurious links to former happiness! In one shadowy cavern, near Broome street, there was a gentleman's evening dress set—something not out of place in a Cartier window. In another, the exquisite blending of Rookwood pottery.

In still another window, cluttered with tawdry clocks (decorated with fractious bronze horses) and silly shaped silver-plated vases, there stood out, like a lily in the bog, a frosted glass fruit dish embellished with the unmistakable statuary loveliness of Lalique.

Thingumbobs: A new competitor to the news magazine, Time, will summarize the columnists weekly "Ballyhoo," which leaped to 3,000,000 circulation, now has 500,000. Karl Kitchen, opera and symphony enthusiast, won't listen to music over the radio. Cornelia Otis Skinner's husband watches her at every performance. The Prince of Wales calls Noel Coward, "Noey." Cecil DeMille never has directed a temperamental star.

Five mid-town churches are open all night for the winter's forlorn. In such sanctuaries they huddle in every position of which the human body is capable. In a way, they are troops bivouacking before dead camp-fires, resting before the battle. The Battle of Tomorrow!

Depressing rumors are insistent, three romantic old hotels of the town will close shortly. Twenty years is long life for a metropolitan inn, but many due to the boom, were able to remain open profitably until now.

Alexander Woodcott's farewell party before taking off for Russia, was a mock mannequin parade in his mahor, dubbed "Wit's End." All the Persian fludduberry was in profession—the miniature stage, for display, tea cart refreshments, pivoting ladies paroled in finery, and pads and pencils for guests to check the exhibits. Among gowns called off as they appeared were: "Madam, Ancienne," "Pour le Brothel," and others.

Two years ago Vash Young, who never had written a line for print, showed me a manuscript I thought unusually meritorious. Several editors whom I asked to read it, thought otherwise. That manuscript, in book form as "A Fortune to Share," has been a best seller for a year. Which may encourage other writers who face editorial rebuff.

Two high yeller gals, fanning the air, incited a throaty raspberry. And a booming voice bellowed: "Whadda you want for 40 cents (the admission price)—murder?"

Although the affairs of this day may move along at a lively pace, according to the prevailing stellar activities, yet they may assume the character of disruption, upheaval or sudden change or travel. It is a time for managing things with a degree of deliberation and calmness rather than hastily flying into untired situations or grasping abrupt opportunities for changing the fortunes. Gains may be made if all radical or suddenly presented matters be met conservatively.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of a sudden visitation of far-reaching influence upon the future destinies. These changes might be turned to good advantage if conservatively managed after due deliberation and wise council. A child born on this day may be lively and energetic and adventurous, but prone to jump into abrupt situations of a disruptive nature. With care and calm manipulation it may benefit.

SYNOPSIS

Nevis and Bill Lancaster were supremely happy until Bill became successful selling bonds and they started living lavishly. Nevis is constantly on the go. Nevis sees little of him and the long for the simple life they led when first married. Then Bill meets Olive Blanchard, who tries in vain to seduce his affections. Although Bill sees much of Olive and enjoys her company, he loves Nevis. Nevis, however, believes the affair is serious when she reads a poem which she accepts the attentions of Harry Carter, a prominent architect. Bill is jealous when Nevis offers to give up Carter if he does Olive, but refuses. Their relations become strained. Carter tells Nevis he loves her and cannot go on without her. Nevis is stunned when Bill tells her that he is separating. Then comes news of another divorce in their circle and Nevis is perturbed.

CHAPTER XIV

Nevis went out on the lawn sat down in a wicker chair beneath the great oak tree that was the pride of the little place. She looked across the grassy lawn at the tree-shadowed reaches of Lynn Lane. She thought, "How lovely here, and peaceful."

But it wasn't. Fluff and Waterford, and Frances and Dirk; and now she had to face it—herself and Bill.

She hadn't been even decent to Bill lately. That was Olive. Olive and her possessive manner. Bill was an idiot the way he permitted himself to be taken in by that avid girl with her slow eyes and her caressing fingers.

Bill hadn't permitted himself to be drawn into an affair with Olive, thought Nevis, convinced, she herself wouldn't have gone as far as she had with Harry Carter. She didn't love Harry. She liked him; and he had become necessary to her, save to her wounds, ointment to her hurt vanity.

But she thought suddenly, that's like Frances, in a way, amusing herself with other men because Dirk can't get along without them.

She thought, frightened, when she drifted into these things and the first thing you know, you're sunk.

She knew definitely, sitting there, thinking things out for the first time that she couldn't be unfaithful to Bill. She loved him. And even if she didn't love him as much as she now admitted to herself, she couldn't be mentally unfaithful. Planning her "affair" with Carter out of sheer pique, she realized that she had never crossed a borderline in her thoughts; had made of Carter's devotion a mere romantic stop-gap, just a way of squaring things and no harm done; she had perhaps visioned him as a hopeless but determined suitor over a period of years. Meetings in town; walks in the country; tea by the fire; flowers, books, candy, letters. No more.

But things didn't stand still and mark time. They went ahead or

Accidentally Shot

In the national spotlight when he waged the fight for Sacco and Vanzetti, Powers Hapgood (above), Socialist leader, of Indianapolis, Ind., is in a critical condition as the result of being accidentally shot by his friend, William L. Hines, while practicing with a rifle on his farm. Hapgood was Socialist candidate for Governor of Indiana at the last election.

creet thing to do but she didn't want to see him. She said, merely: "I can't, Harry. I care too much for Bill. I don't care for you. I think you know that, in your heart. Please don't try to see me again."

He did, of course. Wrote and phoned once, came to the house. There was nothing of a scene. Neither of them happened to have been made that way. But it was final enough. He said, "I'd be a fool to ask you to be friends. I don't want you for a friend. That's all I want, anything not to lose you altogether."

He was not, perhaps, entirely sincere. Friendship, save with one woman, had no meaning for him. But it was the correct and inevitable gesture.

She answered, trying to smile: "I don't think I can play your game. Any way. The cards are stacked, somehow. It isn't good enough. Harry. None of it is." She added that she and Bill were going away.

They didn't, however. He couldn't leave. Meantime, Della had her baby in the brisk and gaily mirthful manner that one would expect from her. She said to Nevis who saw her a few days later: "I've always been a clown. So I had to keep up the reputation. It wasn't easy but I made the grade. Isn't Small Mort perfectly swell?"

A dark baby, slightly jaundiced, with a top-knot of hair and no nose to mention.

"Don't bother to lie," advised Della, hastily. "I think he's beautiful and Mort has him entered for a prep school and university and a couple of clubs already. That's what we think of him! He'll improve with age, for the populace. Miss Morrison assures me."

DELTA, Colo.—His majesty, the horse, lunging his head in abject humiliation when the announcement went out that the old livery stable on the corner of Fourth and Palmer streets was to be razed to make way for—of all things—a filling station. The livery barn was built in the early 1900's and was a landmark for old-time Delta residents.

There has been a gradual trend toward gold as the monetary standard of the world. Recent extension of this tendency in the Orient has very seriously crippled the buying power of the East. European war debts to the United States are payable in gold. At present the United States holds 40 per cent of the world's supply of gold in her vaults. France holds 20 per cent. There is not enough gold in all the rest of the world to pay the European war debts to the United States. With these facts in mind it is little wonder the "blood of trade" flows sluggishly through the arteries of commerce.

"The present economic depression is world-wide. Every country including our own is going through a great economic readjustment.

"We have the highest standard of living in the world. We have a corner on the world's gold and potential claim to the remainder. We are unwilling for world goods to flood our markets thereby reducing American labor to continental and to oriental levels. There remains self-contained sufficiency or promoting world standards of living to the level of our own. When all the work to be done is divided among all those who want work, unemployment has been relieved as far as it is possible. In terms of food, fuel and natural resources, the United States is in a strong position to maintain its status among the nations of the world. Our lot is now the fortune of a creditor nation. Perhaps we must do some economic shifting to occupy this new position to best advantage.

Time to Reread History

"Sometimes nations as well as individuals are unable to adapt themselves from the role of toiling amid enemies upward to a commanding position of comparative wealth. Now is the time for American citizens to reread Roman history.

"Unlike any other major experiment in freegovernment, the United States set up the project of universal education. To a considerable extent our people are becoming a nation of readers. In my opinion therein lies America's salvation. When the masses of our people are reading, thinking people, they can be depended upon to cooperate when real crises are faced.

A paper "The McDowell Colony of Peterboro" was contributed by Mrs. Homer Barber.

tion knob from the safe and took all available cash. Other desks in the auditor's rooms were also looted but the burglars, apparently concentrating their hunt on money, took nothing else in this office.

The machine gun and rifle, the latter a 30-30 government long range gun, were stored in Barlow's private office which was rifled after the thieves had ransacked desks, parole files and drawers in another office used by the sheriff and his deputies. A small cash box was emptied.

Papers were strewn over floors of both rooms. A check for $142.61, given Barlow by an attorney Tuesday, was still in the safe drawer.

The robbery is believed to have occurred between 3 and 4 a. m. Marshal Dalton Pike reported that he had visited the courthouse on his regular "beat" between 2 and 3 a. m. and found nothing suspicious. All money and other goods stolen is reported covered by insurance.

The burglars are believed by Sheriff Barlow to have fled through a window in the treasurer's office.

A Youngstown finger print expert was assisting Barlow and deputies in the investigation this morning while county aids were busy cleaning up debris in various offices. An inspector from the Maryland Casualty company was also assisting in the probe.

It was definitely determined that dynamite had been used to blast the door from the vault in Litty's office. A hole was discovered blown in the floor under the vault.

Auditor Irwin today wired the secretary of state's office to send an inspector to check the loss of automobile license plates which are missing from his office. Some of the plates were recovered outside of the courthouse and may have been blown there by the explosion.

Quakers Outclass Lisbon Five To Win Second Straight Game

THE DAY IN SPORTS

NEW BASKETBALL RULES
PITCHERS FEAR RUTH
BABE DRAWS BO WALKS

Visitors Put Up Hard Fight But Bow, 35-23; Salem Reserves Win

Performing for the first time before a home town audience, a veteran Salem High varsity quintet outclassed an inexperienced Lisbon High varsity to gain an easy 35-23 victory—the Quakers' second triumph in as many starts—in a listless struggle at the Salem gym Tuesday night.

For two periods the visiting Blue and White combination was helpless before the apparently powerful Salem squad but a decided let-down in the performance of the Stonemen in closing quarters prevented the contest from becoming a complete rout.

W. Siding Stars

Erratic under-basket work in early minutes of the game kept Lisbon's score down as the Quakers, with Wayne Siding in the lead role, quickly chalked up an 8-0 lead. The Stonemen repeatedly worked the ball down the floor, through Lisbon's defensive formation, for easy under-basket tosses and led, 11-2, at the close of the first period.

A big advantage in height also helped the Quakers as they continued to outclass the visiting quintet in the second period. W. Siding and Johnnie Pukalski, accounting for their team's points as the margin was run up to 21-10 at halftime.

The Stonemen played flashy ball, showed a fine offense but were weak on defense. It wasn't a bit their fault that Lisbon didn't count more points for the Blue and White had plenty of scoring chances but seeds of hard luck—the ball rolled around the hoop and out no less than three times for young Freddie Reese and the team just couldn't click.

Quakers Look Powerful

In this first half, however, the Quakers demonstrated clearly that they will loom as a dangerous threat for county championship laurels but whether it was Lisbon's weakness or their own strength which allowed them this impressive performance is yet a matter of conjecture.

The third period was a listless affair for spectators, Salem's offense collapsing completely and neither team was able to score for the first four minutes of play. Each missed several free throws from the foul line, Lisbon finally breaking into the scoring with a foul toss by Prasco and a fielder by Williams. Reese, all-county end at Lisbon during the 1932 grid season, was ejected from the game in the second period on four personal fouls but his team refused to be bothered by this handicap and, with Gilbert playing a scintillating brand of ball, completely outplayed Salem in the third quarter. Only a late rally in this period prevented the Quakers from being outscored by their rivals.

Stone Injects Reserves

Coach Floyd Stone injected his "B" varsity into the fray in the fourth stanza and the game took on renewed interest for onlookers, the teams battling on even terms until scoring. Fine work by Linder and Holloway were high points in the period.

Quaker backers are still mystified by the big change in their team's play after a brilliant first half performance but are enthused over the victory, the second straight. Splendid passwork, with Purn Siding as the keyman of this passing offense, was the big feature of the opening half.

Women Boxers Tie In St. Louis Bout

(By Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 21.—Evelyn Morris and "Bobby" Brewer, St. Louis boxers, fought to a draw here last night in a match that was the first feminine pugilistic contest ever sanctioned by the Missouri Athletic commission for a major drama. The bout was part of a boxing wrestling program for charity—great deal of which the girl pugilists exhibited in their three-round bout, and neither suffered any bad scars.

RESERVES GAIN EASY TRIUMPH OVER LISBON HI

Visiting Quintet Fails To Score Field Goal In Final Half

Salem High reserves flashed a strong defense to allow Lisbon High second-stringers to bring three field goals to gain an easy 35-15 triumph in a fast preliminary game at the school gym Tuesday night.

Two full teams were used in the game by Coach Franklin Lewis, both outplaying the visitors by a wide margin.

The game was close in the first half, with the half ending, 19-12, but the Quakers braced in the third period, rolling up eight points to Lisbon's three, then, while the visitors failed to tally, added eight more counters in the fourth stanza. Lisbon was held without a field goal in the second half.

Mount Cagers Get Only Short Rest

ALLIANCE, Dec. 21.—Mount Union's basketball varsity will get only one week of vacation from cage practice, Coach Robert D. Wright announced today. Mount will meet Case in Memorial Hall here January 4.

Although the holiday recess begins today and extends to January 3 basketball men will return December 28 for regular workouts.

Offensively Coach Wright's team looked fairly strong in scoring 27 points against the Big University of Michigan quintet. In comparison with last year's championship team they appeared decidedly weak on the defensive.

As many hours of hard drill are to be put in before the Clevelanders play their opener here the Mount Union cage team may show fans some of the real type of basketball that has carried this school over for two consecutive conference crowns.

Golfers Win Money But Can't Collect

(By Associated Press)
OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 21.—Johnny Goodman, the little Omaha Gopher who represented the United States in the finals of the national amateur tournament, knows where there is $15 that is his for the taking—but he won't take it.
Goodman, paired with Pete Lyck, Omaha amateur golfer entered a bowling tourney here and he and Lyck were no little surprised when they found themselves heading the list of doubles teams.
Their score was good enough to win them $30—but they haven't claimed the $30 and both freely admit they never expect to.
Their amateur standing would be ruined if they took the money.

Yankees Honored for Great Performance in '32 Season

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—By an overwhelming margin, the nation's sports experts have decided that the New York Yankees' feat of winning the American League championship and the world series was the greatest team achievement of the year.

Exactly 100 out of the 302 votes cast in the second annual Associated Press poll of sports writers and editors went to the Yankees. The college football teams of Colgate and Southern California, the pro outfit of the Green Bay Packers, the United States Olympic track and field squad, and California's all-conquering crew, finished badly distanced also—ran to the Yankees.

Colgate Gridlers Second
Colgate's football array, undefeated, untied and unscathed upon, finished in second place with 33 votes, six more than Southern California's mole-skin warriors.

Apparently it was the Yankees' consistent performance over the long stretch from April to October, that turned the tide of ballots toward them rather than to any one football team. The Yankees played 160 games where football eleven are asked to play nine or ten at the most.

Here's how the leaders finished in the balloting:

1. New York Yankees, baseball, 103.
2. Colgate, football, 33.
3. Southern California, football, 28.
4. U. S. Olympic track and field team, 26.
5. Green Bay pro football team, 19.
6. University of California crew, 15.
7. U. S. Olympic team (all sports), 1.
8. Pittsburgh, football, 8.
9. Michigan football, 7.
10. Notre Dame, football, 7.

Deal With Cubs. Will Aid Reds, Bush Predicts

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Donie Bush, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds who startled the baseball world by swapping his star outfielder, Babe Herman to the Chicago Cubs for four run-of-the-mine players and a bale of cash, still thinks the deal was a good one for the Reds.

"The deal may not turn out to be so hot, but if you can't win with what you've got, you might as well gamble," philosophized Donie at the big league meeting here recently.

"Of course Herman was a star, but don't forget we got some good ball players in return," Bush pointed out. "Johnny Moore is a good outfielder; Bob Smith will help anybody's pitching staff; Hemsley will help out Lombardi and Manion with the catching, and Lance Richbourg is a handy man to have around."

"We ought to finish a couple of notches above the cellar next season," Bush concluded. "The folks in Cincinnati are all steamed up. They have been real nice to me and I hope I can pay them back with an improved ball club."

Old Pitt Stars Rally to Aid Of Panthers for Jan. 2 Clash

(By International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21.—Picked to represent the East against Southern California in the Rose Bowl tournament of Roses on Jan. 2, The Golden Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh found themselves without stubborn opposition for approximately a month.

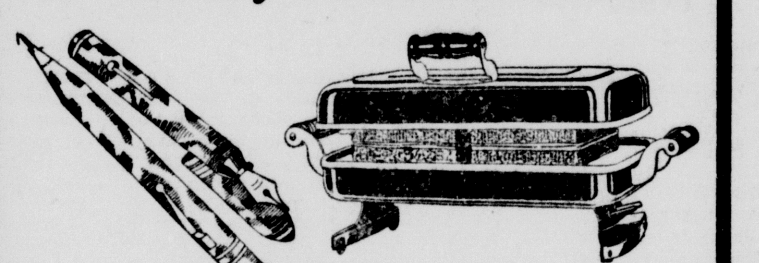

What can be done? That question rang throughout the campus. Scrub teams were available but their opposition could hardly be compared to that veteran foe. Moreover, the Trojans are the pick of the coast so "Jock" Sutherland's Panthers just had to be brought to a peak for the historic classic.

Assistant Coach Ray Montgomery solved the problem. He turned to the Alumni for aid and it was immediately forthcoming. Stars of former years donned moleskins and opposed the Panthers.

STATE DEMANDS DEATH PENALTY

Jury Debating Fate of Lima Man In Double
Tragedy

(By Associated Press)
LIMA, O., Dec. 21—With the state's demand for the death penalty and the defense appeal for acquittal ringing in their ears, the jury which heard evidence that Loren Truettale killed his brother, Earl, 20, and Miss Thelma Woods, 17, today deliberated his fate.

Six hours after the jury received the case, no official word was forthcoming from the deliberation room.

The case was given the jury at six o'clock last night, and after considering it for four hours, it retired for the night. Reports at that time were that no ballots had been taken.

When the jury reconvened at nine o'clock this morning it was reported balloting was being held up by an argument. What the argument concerned, however, could not be learned.

Although Judge E. E. Everett was in the court room, the jurors made no request for additional instructions or advice.

creaked. The tallest building in the city, a 16-story office building swayed noticeably. Many persons in office buildings, hotels and apartments, swayed into the streets.

Felt In Los Angeles

The shocks were comparatively light in San Francisco but were felt distinctly. In the interior California valleys many communities, including Sonora, Fresno and Modesto reported distinct tremors. Cities as far south as Long Beach and Los Angeles said the earthquake was distinctly felt but caused no damage.

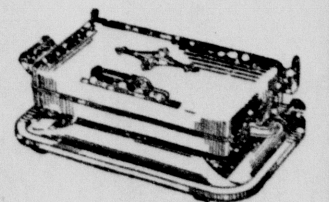

Motorists in Salt Lake City said that during the shock it seemed as though their machines were being pushed over. Curtains rustled, dishes fell from shelves and buildings swayed in the Utah City.

THEATER Attractions

"EVENINGS FOR SALE" new and immensely clever farce comedy, concludes its two day run today as the State theater's attraction.

This is the story of the love of an Austrian nobleman from a family which has been impoverished by the war, and a girl from the middle classes whose family has been greatly enriched by the war.

The former, to earn a living, is forced to hire himself out as a dancing partner at an expensive cafe. There he meets the girl who mistakes him for the nobleman she thinks he is. On learning of his profession she insults him brutally.

The presence of an American widow with a huge bankroll and a weakness for royalty complicates matters still further. Ultimately everything is straightened out in an amusing climax.

Herbert Marshall, Charley Ruggles, Mary Boland and Sari Maritza portray leading roles. Marshall, last seen here in "Trouble in Paradise," is splendid in the role of the nobleman and Mary Boland, a recent recruit from the stage is excellent in the role of the American heiress.

THURSDAY brings to the State theater a real thriller—"The Night of June 13," classed as one of the best mystery films of the year.

It will play the one day only. The drama is set in the suburb of a large eastern city, and features Clive Brook, Lila Lee, Charlie Ruggles, Gene Raymond, Frances Dee, Mary Boland, and Adrienne Allen.

The story deals with the manner in which the lives of four families, live in adjacent houses on a suburban street, are tangled together.

Brook is in the role of a young husband whose wife, Miss Allen, is hysterically jealous of him. When she suspects him of an affair with Miss Lee, their next door neighbor, she commits suicide.

Brook discovers her body, and beside it a note in which she accuses Miss Lee of having been responsible for her act. To protect the girl, Brook destroys the note. The result is that authorities charge him with murder.
